Program Summary

This one-day program provides "learn-by-doing" training for prospective advocacy skills faculty. Participants will receive instruction on the AGAI's teaching methodology and critique student performances in a simulated mock skills program setting. The faculty, in turn, will then evaluate the participants' teaching techniques.

Who Should Attend?

Attendees for this program have been nominated to participate by their division, program or office leadership. Please do not attempt to register for this program if you have not been invited to attend. Those who complete the program will be eligible to serve as faculty for Attorney General's Advocacy Institute and National Attorneys General Training and Research Institute litigation skills programs.

Who Is the Faculty?

DAG Joseph M. Micheletti is an Assistant Section Chief in the Litigation Practice Group, where he manages a group of trial attorneys. DAG Micheletti has over twenty-two years of public service and a wealth of experience in all aspects of litigation. During his time with the Attorney General's Office, Joe has served in various staff and supervisory positions. He currently handles the defense of complex civil rights litigations brought against law enforcement agencies and their employees. DAG Micheletti previously served as a trial attorney in the Employment Litigation Section, where he provided representation to State agencies and employees in complex employment matters. He also served in the Tort Litigation Section; where he litigated a high volume of personal injury cases. DAG Micheletti has tried multiple matters before the New Jersey Superior and United States District Courts and has also represented State agencies in front of administrative bodies including the Division of Civil Rights and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Additionally, DAG Micheletti briefed and argued multiple appeals before the New Jersey Superior Court, Appellate Division and the United States Third Circuit Court of Appeals. DAG Micheletti serves as a faculty member for New Jersey Attorney General's Advocacy Institute and the National Attorneys General Training and Research Institute. He teaches courses in trial advocacy, depositions, and Section 183 law.

Anthony A. Picione is a Deputy Attorney General with the Division of Criminal Justice and the Chief of the Division's Corruption Bureau. Mr. Picione's practice concentrates largely on white collar crime, particularly offenses involving public officials and public funds. During his career, Mr. Picione has prosecuted numerous high profile cases involving public corruption and the theft of public funds. Mr. Picione is also an instructor for the New Jersey Attorney General's Advocacy Institute, the Police Training Commission and the National Attorneys General Training and Research Institute, as well as an Adjunct Professor of Trial Advocacy for Rutgers Law School - Camden. Mr. Picione received his J.D. cum laude from the University of Pennsylvania Law School in 1995 and received his B.A. magna cum laude from Drew University in 1992.
